

My Crazy Little Fieldtrip

One day in the middle of last week, my class went on a crazy little fieldtrip.

First, instead of taking a bus, we took a space shuttle that was not driven by people, but by cattle! They weren't just ordinary cattle either—one played the fiddle and the other was doing a puzzle!

As we flew through space, I saw many stars. Boy, did they twinkle and sparkle!

Finally, we reached our destination—the farm. It was crazy too! The farmhouse looked like a castle and I saw a horse blowing a bubble, a duck eating a waffle, a cat playing a bugle, and an eagle blowing a whistle!

When I went home, I did baffle and dazzle my mom with my story. Then, she let out a giggle and said, “That’s better than anything you could see on cable.”
